BOMBAY RIOTS TOLL CONTINUES TO MOUNT

BOMBAY, Feb. 9.—Religious warfare had turned the native section of Bombay into a "No Man's Land" today and the death toll was approximately nine-fifty since riots broke out between Pathans and Hindus last Sunday.

More than 500 persons have been wounded or injured.

Thirty persons were killed in mob fighting last night when police were forced to fire into the crowds.

Fighting has been general throughout the native quarter since Hindu mill workers attacked Pathans whom they accused of kidnapping young boys for sacrificial purposes.

Armored cars patrol the streets and military and police reinforcements continue to arrive from the various presidency cities.

SMALL TRADERS SEE PROFITS DWINDLE; CREDIT IS BLAMED

Federal Reserve Order
One Of Reasons Of
Sudden Drop

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—America's army of small stock market traders saw their profits, run up in the greatest bull market of history, dwindle by about three billion dollars this week as a result of the federal reserve board's ultimatum on the credit situation.

After having soared to a new record high for all time at $322.06 on Tuesday, when Wall Street was confident the market would go on upward indefinitely, the market ran into a snag and the industrial average broke to $301.53 at the close Friday.

Today was a holiday. Stock exchange officials gave as the reason the influenza epidemic among brokerage office workers. Traders read betwixt the lines and saw an intent to give the market a chance to re-adjust itself.

Reasons for the abrupt drop was entirely in the field of credit. First of all, the federal reserve announced it would take drastic measures to curtail brokerage loans by member banks. Secondly, the London Bank raised its discount rate to 5-1/2 per cent from 4-1/2 per cent.

Third, the New York bank is to meet Monday, probably to discuss its discount rate. The fourth reason is a consequence of the first, namely a rise to nine per cent in call money rates.

Before London's action gold was flowing rapidly to New York from England. Several New York banks had made purchases, totaling $15,700,000. Sterling held at a point where these shipments were profitable here, but when the London rate went up sterling went with it, reaching a new high for the year and cutting off that source of market credit.

The situation as it now stands is not serious. At this time of the year, the federal reserve can experiment without running the risk of harming business. Business, incidentally, is holding up in excellent fashion, according to trade reports. Steel is in better demand; automobile production set a record in January; railroads are carrying more freight than a year ago.

Large manufacturers have taken advantage of high money rates by placing surpluses in the call loan market where lucrative profits accrue.

If the discount rate is placed at 6 per cent, it will balance the English rate and probably leave the situation where it was with the exception that money will be dearer and a hardship to many more than those who play the stock market.

Losses in principal issues ranged from one to forty-one points, the heaviest in Radio Corporation.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9.—Tuberculin testing will be continued temporarily under the present compromise plan despite the supreme court's ruling on the Riggs law, Director of Agriculture Perry L. Green said today.

The testing has been operating on an entirely voluntary basis, pending the court's decision which held the testing law constitutional. Increasing the maximum allowed the cattle owner for slaughtered reactors is favored by Green and will be sponsored by him at the next agricultural board meeting, he said. This increase would correspond to the increased federal allowance as nearly as the state appropriations permit, Green announced.

He emphasized that the action must come from the board and his recommendations will not necessarily inaugurate the change. Amendments clarifying the Riggs law have been suggested, and are expected to be introduced into the present session of the general assembly.

CAPTURE PRISONER
WASHINGTON, C. H., Feb. 9.—James Mitchell, 36, who escaped from the London prison farm Oct. 8, 1927, was captured at his home near here yesterday. Mitchell, a farmer, was living under an assumed name, arresting officers said.

XENIA MAY GET ARMORY

SPECIAL BILL WILL BE PRESENTED FOR PROPOSED BUILDING

Delegation Assured Of Action Before Legislature

A special bill will be introduced at the present session of the state legislature by Representative R. D. Williamson, Greene County, providing for an appropriation of between $60,000 and $75,000 for construction of a National Guard armory in Xenia.

Senior officers of the Ohio National Guard have arranged a preferred list of new armory sites, including Toledo, Alliance, Berea and Westerville, in the order named. A separate bill will be required for the Xenia construction, but the Toledo, Berea and Westerville projects will be included in the general appropriation asked by the adjutant general's department.

Need for an armory in Xenia was expressed by a delegation of twenty-two prominent Xenia and Greene County business men and public officials, who went to Columbus Friday and held a conference in the afternoon with Adjutant-General Arthur W. Reynolds and the finance committee of the house of representatives, of which Representative Williamson is a member and former chairman.

The question of a site for the building in this city was not discussed. However, the local committee has options on two possible sites. The committee has an option on five vacant lots situated in rear of the Greene County District Library and owned by Charles A. Bone, George F. Dodds and Pearl White. The consideration for the lots is $5,000.

This is declared to be an ideal site for such a building since the lots face Edison Blvd., an eighty-foot street with a street on the south side forty feet in width and another street on the north side seventy feet in width.

The second site under consideration is property adjoining the Xenia Fire Department engine house on the east. It consists of a lot on which a residence owned by George Eckler is located and a house and lot adjacent on the east. The consideration for these two lots was not disclosed.

While it is far from certain that the armory appropriation for Xenia

GAS COMPANY TO SEEK RE-HEARING

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9.—Still protesting against the figures set for overhead, leaseholds, and "going concern" by the public utilities commission, the Logan Gas Co. is preparing a petition for rehearing, Freeman T. Eagleton, Columbus, company's attorney, told the United Press today.

While hoping to complete and file the petition next week, Eagleton said it would be submitted well within the thirty-day period at the latest.

The permanent valuation of the Logan company's property, set by the commission last week, nearly cut in half the company's estimate of $20,000,000.

Pluck Balks Thugs

When two bandits entered his father's drug store in Detroit, 11-year-old Steven Thomas ran out and phoned the police. As the bandits left, he watched them and, obtaining the license number of their car, again called headquarters. HOPE DWINDLES AS TREE DIES

But Christmas Is Kept Alive In Horst Home For Return Of Lost Child.

ORRVILLE, O., Feb. 9.—In the corner of a room in a modest home here a little Christmas tree is fast dying—its pine needles falling one by one to the floor.

And sitting in the room before the tree is a grief-stricken mother who avers her hopes that her little son who disappeared two days before Christmas was still alive, will never die.

Mrs. Raymond Horst sweeps the pine needles that fall to the floor and prays that the tree will last until Melvin gets home to see it again—to play once more with the toys which Santa Claus left for him.

The little boy dog is covered with dust, but sturdy and staunch he stands.

"The little toy soldier is red with rust and the musket moulds in his hands."

"Time was when the little dog was new, and the soldier was passing fair."

"And that was the time when Little Boy Blue kissed them and put them there."

Each night the Horst home is unlocked in order that Melvin could get in if he should come home. A beacon light burns in the home that he might see his way.

Mrs. Horst doesn't believe that Melvin has been cremated in a furnace or that his little body was dismembered ruthlessly and crammed beneath a culvert.

Instead, she believes some day she will have her little boy back again.

CONVICTED BRIBER WILL GET TERM IN OHIO PENITENTIARY

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 9.—Councilman Thomas W. Fleming, convicted by a jury in common pleas court on a charge of accepting a bribe of $200 from Walter L. Oehme, crippled former city detective, will be sentenced to serve from one to ten years in the state penitentiary.

Coincidentally with the sentence, Judge N. Craig McBride of Hillsboro, O., presiding, will order Fleming dismissed from the city council under an Ohio statute which stipulates a councilman automatically loses his seat upon conviction of a felony.

Fleming, at liberty on his original $10,000 bond, maintains he is innocent.

Prior to the sentence, his chief counsel, George W. Spomer, will file a motion for a new trial. If the motion is overruled by Judge McBride, Spomer will carry the case to the court of appeals, he has announced.

City Law Director Carl F. Shuller believes Fleming will be entitled to retain his seat in council until his case has been appealed and the conviction upheld in the highest state courts.

Oehme had charged Fleming with soliciting $200 from him as remuneration for an ordinance he promised to introduce in council to reimburse him for injuries he received while on duty in Fleming's ward, the "Roaring Third."

The B. and O. train was an hour late and was hurriedly backing when it hit the locomotive.

RADIO COMBINE IS BEING PROBED FOR TRUST VIOLATION

Justice Department May File Suit For Dissolution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—For a week the department of justice has been conducting a private investigation of the Radio Corporation of America combine to ascertain if a violation of the anti-trust laws has been committed, it was learned here today.

The department is contemplating two courses of action, first to warn the interested parties to revise their system or secondly to file suit in court to dissolve the alleged trust.

Recently the department adopted a general policy to stay out of court if a trust dissolution could be worked out on terms agreeable to the government.

The private investigation has stirred much interest in congress where the senate interstate commerce committee has been briefly investigating the radio situation in connection with the Dill Bill to extend the life of the federal radio commission another year.

The bill was ordered favorably reported to the senate by the committee last night and will be pressed for emergency action before congress adjourns.

REPARATIONS MEET CONVENES IN PARIS

PARIS, Feb. 9.—The first semi-official meeting of the fourteen principle delegates to the historic reparations conferences was called to order shortly after 11:00 a. m. today in the gold room of the bank of France.

It was expected that the delegates would exchange views regarding the choice of a chairman, which position probably will be offered to Owen D. Young, unofficial United States delegate.

If Young refuses to accept the chair, the majority of the delegates probably will insist that he take it.

FOUR OTHERS HURT IN COLLISION IN CINCINNATI YARDS

Yard Conductor Cooked
Alive By Escaping
Steam

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 9.—One man was killed and four others were injured when a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train backed into a Louisville and Nashville locomotive in the Central Union Station yards here last night.

Lee Gatton, 35, of Covington, Ky., yard conductor for the L. and N., was scalded to death when he was trapped in the cab of the L. and N. engine.

The impact of the crash caused steam pipes to burst, and Engineer William Hearn, Latonia, Ky., and Fireman E. L. Daugherty, Covington, were forced to jump to safety before they could rescue Gatton. Both men were bruised and slightly burned.

Gatton was literally cooked alive while workmen stood about, powerless to aid him. Police and firemen finally recovered his body.

One of Gatton's legs was caught and crushed as the engine was hit.

John Edgar, 50, Newport, and John Maltanney, 40, standing in an express car on the B. and O. train were knocked down and injured when the crash occurred.

The wreck tied up traffic in the station for three hours. Trains were routed through the freight yards.

The B. and O. train was an hour late and was hurriedly backing when it hit the locomotive.

WOMAN INJURED AS AUTO STRIKES POLE

Mrs. A. W. Aehart, 49, Bowersville, sustained two fractured ribs and bruises when the auto in which she was riding with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Devoe, Dayton, formerly of Greene County, and their daughter, Geneva, 8, skidded on the ice-covered Jamestown-Xenia Pike and crashed into a pole at Old Town Run, four miles from Xenia, at 6:30 p. m. Friday.

The little girl was bruised and Mr. and Mrs. Devoe, occupying the front seats, were unhurt, although their machine was badly damaged. Mr. Devoe, driver of the car, lost control of it when it began to skid. The auto did not upset.

The party was returning to Dayton after a visit at Bowersville. The accident victims were treated at the office of Dr. Marshall Best, this city.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Feb. 9.—A first degree murder charge will be lodged against Joseph Locke, 45, who shot and wounded his wife, Lucy, 18, and fatally wounded his son-in-law, Mrs. Mary Galloway, 62, following a quarrel. Galloway died late yesterday and Mrs. Locke is near death. Locke was captured in Columbus when he stopped to repair the automobile in which he fled. Mrs. Locke is suffering from wounds in the abdomen and her recovery is doubtful. The quarrel, it was said, resulted from visits paid to the Locke home by Mrs. Locke's first husband.

LINDBERGH ENJOYS FISHING TRIP WITH FIELD COMMANDANT

Rests From Flight By
Angling In Gulf Of Panama

BALBOA, PANAMA CANAL ZONE, Feb. 9.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was fishing at Pearl Islands today in the Gulf of Panama with Col. Arthur Fisher, commandant of Panama Field, Cristobal.

He flew to the islands which lie about fifty miles out in the Gulf of Panama yesterday in the Boeing pursuit plane which he used when here last year. He and Col. Fisher said they would return to Panama Field tomorrow.

At 6 a. m. tomorrow, he will leave on the northbound mail trip through Central America to Miami, Fla., over the same route he used in his pioneer flight from the United States to the Canal Zone with air mail which landed him at Cristobal Wednesday.

Lindbergh was with the fleet yesterday in the Gulf of Panama on board the airplane carrier Saratoga. Before leaving for shore in one of the Saratoga's planes, he watched a naval aerial battle in which 200 planes took part.

When his plane soared away from the deck of the carrier, Lindbergh had achieved another "first"—he was the first army or army reserve officer ever to take off from a naval airplane carrier.

The average production of corn in Ohio is 40 bushels to the acre and Marshall coaxes 176.2 bushels from each acre of his farm. Last season he harvested 1,762.2 bushels from 10 acres.

MRS. FOKKER FALLS TO DEATH IN N. YORK

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Mrs. Anthony H. G. Fokker, wife of the widely-known airplane designer and builder, was killed last night when she fell fifteen floors from the window of her Riverside Drive apartment.

Fokker, who was asleep at the time, was near collapse today. Apparently, Mrs. Fokker, who had just returned from a hospital where she was treated for a nervous ailment, went to the window to get air, and, overcome by a dizzy spell, fell.

PROVES HIS HEART IS ON THE RIGHT SIDE

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9.—As far as Louis Oppenheim of this city is concerned, the fact that his heart is on the right side instead of the left, isn't at all a calamity.

No, siree! Not as long as physicians over the country keep calling him for examinations and give him money as they stroke their long beards in wonderment at the phenomenon, which, they say, happens about once in every 10,000 people.

Oppenheim is married now and has two children, both of whom are in every way normal and have their hearts on their left sides.

It is because of the fact that he is married that Oppenheim hasn't been transformed into a globe trotter, he says, and gone the rounds of the different clinics in hospitals interested in unusual cases.

Oppenheim, a window trimmer and sign writer here, said he was born with the reversed heart and that no one else in his family ever was in a like situation.

LOST HIS SHOES

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9.—Hass McCoury of Betters, N. C., posted a $10 reward today for the capture of the thief who stole his shoes as he snatched a few winks in the Union Station last night.

The fact that the thief left an old pair of shoes in place of the ones he took, hasn't eased Hass's ire a trifle.

KING GEORGE TAKEN TO SUSSEX; HOPES TO REGAIN STRENGTH

Ambulance Used For Trip; Waves To Populace

BAGNOR, Sussex, England, Feb. 9.—The king of England, who shadow of himself, was brought here today to be nursed back to vigor and strength.

The king was lifted carefully from the luxurious ambulance which had brought him the sixty-three miles from London into Craigwell House, where the queen waited with a smile to receive him.

Because of the care with which he was handled, it was understood that the king stood the journey well.

A strange procession came down the road from London to the Sussex coast. First was a police automobile equipped with wireless, which made sure that no obstruction was in the road and kept stations ahead advised of the king's progress, so that traffic was cleared well in advance.

Four other cars were behind it. For the first time during that trying period, the public, which shows by its attitude its genuine affection and respect, was able to pay its tribute to the king in person.

Women wept and even the eyes of some of the men were red-stained when the emaciated figure of the king was brought from Buckingham Palace in London and George stoutly tried to reassure his subjects.

The grey-bearded head raised slightly and a feeble hand waved to the crowd. The men took off their hats and the crowd of 4,000 broke into joyful shouting.

Here for today's Anglo-Irish rugby match, joined in the tribute. Fifty servants have been sent from Buckingham Palace to attend to the king's needs at Craigwell house, while special police were drafted from the police force attached to the palace in London.

While the residence was offered to King George by Sir Arthur Du Cros rent will be paid by the monarch, since it is part of the royal code in England that the king's subjects, leaving him free of obligations.

SMALL TRADERS SEE PROFITS DWINDLE; CREDIT IS BLAMED

Federal Reserve Order
One Of Reasons Of
Sudden Drop

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—America's army of small stock market traders saw their profits, run up in the greatest bull market of history, dwindle by about three billion dollars this week as a result of the federal reserve board's ultimatum on the credit situation.

After having soared to a new record high for all time at $322.06 on Tuesday, when Wall Street was confident the market would go on upward indefinitely, the market ran into a snag and the industrial average broke to $301.53 at the close Friday.

Today was a holiday. Stock exchange officials gave as the reason the influenza epidemic among brokerage office workers. Traders read between the lines and saw an intent to give the market a chance to readjust itself.

Reasons for the abrupt drop was entirely in the field of credit. First of all, the federal reserve announced it would take drastic measures to curtail brokerage loans by member banks. Secondly, the London Bank raised its discount rate to 5 1/2 per cent from 4 1/2 per cent. Third, the New York bank is to meet Monday, probably to discuss its redoubtable rate. The fourth reason is a consequence of the first, namely a rise to nine per cent in call money rates.

Before London's action gold was flowing rapidly to New York from England. Several New York banks had made purchases, totaling $15,700,000. Sterling held at a point where these shipments were profitable here, but when the London rate went up sterling went with it, reaching a new high for the year and cutting off that source of market credit.

The situation as it now stands is not serious. At this time of the year, the federal reserve can experiment without running the risk of harming business. Business, incidentally is holding up in excellent fashion, according to trade reports. Steel is in better demand; automobile production set a record in January; railroads are carrying more freight than a year ago.

Large manufacturers have taken advantage of high money rates by placing surpluses in the call loan market where lucrative profits accrue.

If the discount rate is placed at 6 per cent, it will balance the English rate and probably leave the situation where it was with the exception that money will be dearer and a hardship to many more than those who play the stock market.

Losses in principal issues ranged from one to forty-one points, the heaviest in Radio Corporation.

A special bill will be introduced at the present session of the state legislature by Representative R. D. Williamson, Greene County, providing for an appropriation of between $60,000 and $75,000 for construction of a National Guard armory in Xenia.

Senior officers of the Ohio National Guard have arranged a preferred list of new armory sites, including Toledo, Alliance, Berea and Westerville, in the order named. One side of the bus was badly damaged.

The automobile was driven by Jack Jenkins, superintendent of the Deebay Mine.

Lee Gatson, 35, of Covington, Ky., yard conductor for the L. and N., was scalded to death when he was trapped in the cab of the L. and N. engine.

The impact of the crash caused steam pipes to burst, and Engineer William Hearn, Latonia, Ky., and Fireman E. L. Daugherty, Covington, were forced to jump to safety before they could rescue Gatson. Both men were bruised and slightly burned.

Gatson was literally cooked alive while workmen stood about, powerless to aid him. Police and firemen finally recovered his body.

One of Gatson's legs was caught and crushed as the engine was hit.

John Edgar, 50, Newport, and John Maltaner, 40, standing in an express car on the B. and O. train were knocked down and injured when the crash occurred.

The wreck tied up traffic in the station for three hours. Trains were routed through the freight yards.

The B. and O. train was an hour late and was hurriedly backing when it hit the locomotive.

LINDBERGH ENJOYS FISHING TRIP WITH FIELD COMMANDANT

Rests From Flight By
Angling In Gulf Of --
Panama

BALBOA, PANAMA CANAL ZONE, Feb. 9.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was fishing at Pearl Islands today in the Gulf of Panama with Col. Arthur Fisher, commandant of Panama Field, Cristobal.

He flew to the islands which lie about fifty miles out in the Gulf of Panama yesterday in the Boeing pursuit plane which he used when here last year. He and Col. Fisher said they would return to Panama Field tomorrow.

At 6 a. m. tomorrow, he will leave on the northbound mail trip through Central America to Miami, Fla., over the same route he used in his pioneer flight from the United States to the Canal Zone with air mail which landed him at Cristobal Wednesday.

Lindbergh was with the fleet yesterday in the Gulf of Panama on board the airplane carrier Saratoga. Before leaving for shore in one of the Saratoga's planes, he watched a naval aerial battle in which 200 planes took part.

When his plane soared away from the deck of the carrier, Lindbergh had achieved another "first"—he was the first army or army reserve officer ever to take off from a naval airplane carrier.

ACCUSED OF TAKING MONEY FROM JULIAN PROBE DEFENDANTS

Ex-District Attorney Is Guilty Of Accepting
$165,000

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 9.—For the second time within two weeks the law today claimed one of its prosecutors—Asa Keyes—convicted by a jury of ten women and two men of accepting bribes while district attorney of Los Angeles County.

Keyes, prosecutor of William Edward Hickman and Aimee Semple McPherson, was found guilty on three charges of accepting $165,000 in bribes to direct prosecution of the Julian Petroleum Corporation cases in such a manner that the defendants would be acquitted.

Two of the acquitted Julian defendants, Ed Rosenberg and Ben Getzoff, who allegedly paid Keyes $125,000, also were found guilty and with the former district attorney face possible prison sentences of from one to fourteen years.

Keyes today was in a tiny cell in the hall of Justice Building, five floors above the office where he once ruled as district attorney. There he will remain with Getzoff and Rosenberg until Monday morning when Judge Edward I. Butler will pass sentence.

Keyes' counsel announced an appeal would be sought immediately which probably will gain the former prosecutor at least temporary freedom.

Keyes also faces trial in March on another bribery charge which accuses him of participating in a conspiracy to give and accept bribes in the prosecution of A. L. Lasker, convicted of swindling.

Renowned as a relentless prosecutor, Keyes might even have been at liberty pending sentence had it not been for the same merciless character which his one time student, Burton Pitts, now district attorney, exhibited in the courtroom last night.

Fitts, crippled war veteran, who resigned as Keyes' chief deputy when the scandal of bribery in the Julian trials involved the district attorney's office, concurred in the prosecution demand that Keyes be refused bond.

SLAYER READY TO MEET DEATH

(BULLETIN)
MEXICO CITY, Feb. 9.—Jose de Leon Toral, protesting to the last that he was a martyr to the cause of religion, died his "last on earth" facing the rifles of a firing squad today.

Toral was executed in the patio Alvaro Obregon, at the Federal penitentiary for the assassination last July 17 of General Alvaro Obregon.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 9.—Complete calm had settled over the soul of Jose Leon De Toral today as he prepared for the firing squad that at noon would bring him death for the assassination of General Alvaro Obregon.

The slender, youthful cartoonist had spent the night in prayer and had expressed anxiety as to the fate of his wife and newborn son—Miguel Humberto—whom he was allowed to see yesterday for the first time.

Father Ignacio Flores spent most of the night with Toral, and what passed between them seemed to give the condemned youth added strength and fortitude.

Yesterday, Toral wrote extensively and drew several cartoons. Among his drawings was one depicting himself as a corpse after being shot.

The execution will be Toral's "second death," he said. He considered that he already has suffered torture equal to death, in the course of his trial and appeals.

PROVES HIS HEART IS ON THE RIGHT SIDE

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9.—As far as Louis Oppenheim of this city is concerned, the fact that his heart is on the right side instead of the left, isn't at all a calamity.

No, sir! Not as long as physicians over the country keep calling him for examinations and give him money as they stroke their long beards in wonderment at the phenomenon, which, they say, happens about once in every 10,000 people.

Oppenheim is married now and has two children, both of whom are in every way normal and have their hearts on their left sides.

It is because of the fact that he is married that Oppenheim hasn't been transformed into a globe trotter, he says, and gone the rounds of the different clinics in hospitals interested in unusual cases.

Oppenheim, a window trimmer and sign writer here, said he was born with the reversed heart and that no one else in his family ever was in a like situation.

It is the only organ of his body that is not in its regular place.

The life of a man with a heart on his right side is more or less an exciting one for in addition to the medical experts who want to make their observations, people in general look over the subject carefully as if to say: "Well, look at the freak!"

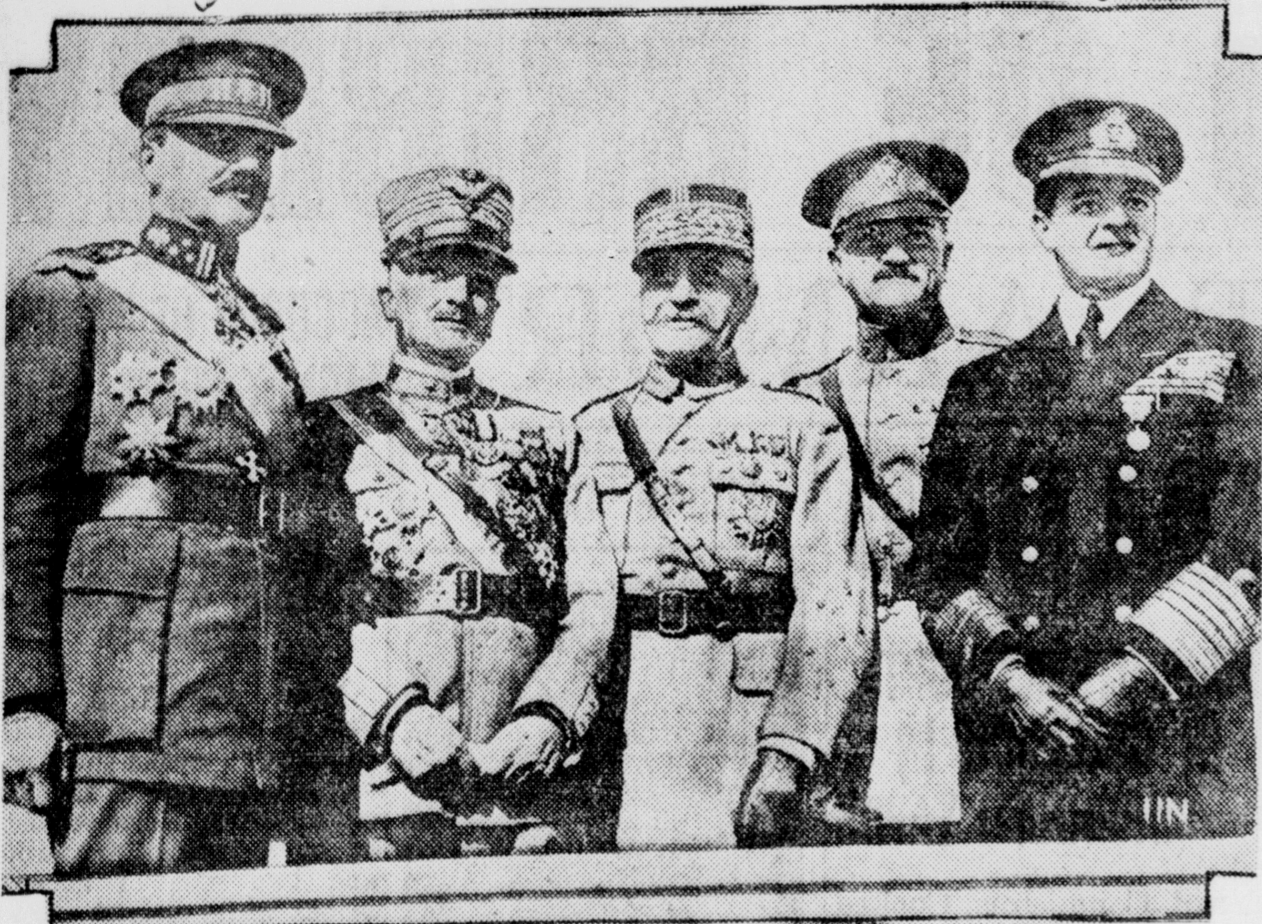

Columbus physicians who have examined Oppenheim say that his heart functions as well as those on the normal side.

The 170 acre farm of R. W. Moore, situated between Jamestown and Bowersville, was bid in by Roy C. Duerstine, N. Detroit St., when it was sold at public auction by an order of court, at the west door of the Court House Saturday morning. The farm brought $70 an acre. It was appraised at $75.

The farm was sold by court order in the case of R. W. Moore as executor of the estate of Emma Moore. Two sets of farm buildings are located on the property which is farmed by two tenants. There is a stone quarry on the farm from which Greene County commissioners buy and crush stone for the roads.

NEGOTIATIONS TO TAKE OVER CEDARVILLE COLLEGE HALTED

A halt in negotiations for taking over Cedarville College by the Presbyterian Church, which have been under consideration for about three years, was announced Friday afternoon by President W. R. McChesney.

The announcement was made at the services in the Presbyterian Church celebrating the annual day of prayer for colleges and high schools.

President McChesney said that the committee on Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church, Synod of Ohio, reported recently that it could not recommend at this time assumption of the management of the college by the church, owing to financial reasons. The matter he said, had not been closed, but is held in abeyance. Cedarville College, which was instituted by and for many years conducted under the auspices of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, is now an independent institution, numbering on its board members of various church bodies.

President McChesney said that plans are in progress for college expansion and enlargement to meet the requirements of the college associations by September, 1930.

The Rev. Frederick N. McMillan, D. D. pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, was the speaker at the services. He mentioned some of his experiences in four years of radio broadcasting of religious services, and then addressed his remarks to the young people making an appeal to them to follow Christ.

Prof. J. H. Dickinson, who was later elected vice president of the college, pronounced the invocation. Miss Carrie Rife of Cedarville High School read a Scriptural selection. The Rev. David McKinney former president of Cedarville, now pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian Church, Cincinnati, led in prayer at the conclusion of the services.

Students of the college and high school attended. The College Girls Glee Club of twenty-seven voices sang several numbers.

NEGOTIATIONS TO TAKE OVER CEDARVILLE COLLEGE HALTED

A halt in negotiations for taking over Cedarville College by the Presbyterian Church, which has been under consideration for about three years, was announced Friday afternoon by President W. R. McChesney.

The announcement was made at the services in the Presbyterian Church celebrating the annual day of prayer for colleges and high schools.

President McChesney said that the committee on Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church, Synod of Ohio, reported recently that it could not recommend at this time assumption of the management of the college by the church, owing to financial reasons. The matter he said, had not been closed, but is held in abeyance. Cedarville College, which was instituted by and for many years conducted under the auspices of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, is now an independent institution, numbering on its board members of various church bodies.

President McChesney said that plans are in progress for college expansion and enlargement to meet the requirements of the college associations by September, 1930.

The Rev. Frederick N. McMillan, D. D. pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, was the speaker at the services. He mentioned some of his experiences in four years of radio broadcasting of religious services, and then addressed his remarks to the young people making an appeal to them to follow Christ.

Prof. J. H. Dickerson, who was later elected vice president of the college, pronounced the invocation. Miss Carrie Rife of Cedarville High School read a Scriptural selection. The Rev. David McKinney former president of Cedarville, now pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian Church, Cincinnati, led in prayer at the conclusion of the service.

Students of the college and high school attended. The College Girls Glee Club of twenty-seven voices sang several numbers.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

SIN ACKNOWLEDGED—We acknowledge, O Lord, our wickedness, and the iniquity of our fathers: for we have sinned against thee.—Jeremiah 14:20.

DELAY IN BUILDING WARSHIPS

The history of the cruiser Salt Lake City ought to dispel any fear entertained by the pacifists that if the senate passed the cruiser bill today, we should have sixteen new warships by tomorrow night, and next week should be in a position to challenge the supremacy of the most puissant sea power. The construction of the Salt Lake City was authorized by act of Congress on December 18, 1924, and her keel was laid June 9, 1927. She was launched a few days ago, less than 63 per cent complete, and will not be commissioned before next December.

There will thus have elapsed between the authorization and commissioning of the first 10,000-ton cruiser to be built by the United States since the Washington conference of 1921-22, a period of five years; and between the laying of her keel and her launching there elapsed a period of nineteen months.

A modern cruiser is not built in a day. All her details must be planned before her keel is laid. After she leaves the ways she must be armed, conditioned and manned before she can be sent to sea.

The provisions of the bill which caused so much commotion in congress called for starting work on five cruisers and an aircraft carrier during the current fiscal year and on five cruisers during each of the fiscal years of 1930 and 1931. At best, we could not have more than the vessels started this year completed by the middle of 1931, when the Washington agreement is due for revision; and it is doubtful if a single ship contemplated by the bill could be in commission at that time. We should have, however, something concrete to bargain with—or something to defend our rights with in case war unhappily should be forced upon us.

THAT "WORST JOKE"

A writer in the London Express is quoted as saying that prohibition in America is the worst joke any country ever played on itself. Intelligent Englishmen know that the supreme need of Great Britain today is to raise the standard of living. Prohibition has done it in the United States and it would do it in Great Britain. Until it is done, Great Britain will remain hitched to a post so far as international competition is concerned. In the face of these conditions, to speak of prohibition as a joke evidences either a brutal selfishness which is willing to sacrifice the national good for personal appetite, or a footless stupidity.

Now that airplanes are being sold on the installment basis, collectors will have to learn to fly.

The Way of the World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

FROM DARKNESS TO LIGHT

In a biography of Cavour, Italian patriot, one reads these words: "In the ebb and flow of the seasons there comes a turning point when we say, 'yesterday was winter; today is spring.' The change may have been long, brooding, unexpected, almost unhelped for; but we recognize it immediately. At a given moment we are surprised to note a new feel in the air, to see buds peep forth on twig and tree, to find a new, strange exaltation in the heart. When we looked last the fields were stubble; now a delicate verdure is creeping across them. Nature, which for many months has seemed utterly absorbed by death, now pours life and more life into every nerve and fiber of the visible world. History, too, has its equinoctials."

And so in the patient struggle on the part of a few to make an approved world there seems for long periods to be little progress. Looking at the world today we see the persisting evils of the long centuries that have passed. But we hope, and our reasons tell us, that there will come a day when we can say, "yesterday was winter; today is spring."

MARCHING ON

W. H. Jones, California farmer, is 98 years old. That doesn't prevent him from announcing his candidacy for justice of the peace in 1930. He gets the jump on younger men who might be seeking office. At 98 he seems to lead the field in ambition and energy. There is something very brave about an old man, untried by the sunset, pushing on to new things and new experiences with the indomitable courage of youth and of hope.

A SENSE OF TIME

The best salesman is not always the one that is described as the "peppiest." The man who is nervous, over-alert, in manner, frequently gives the impression of being in a hurry. He does not create a comfortable atmosphere of confidence in himself and his goods. A customer doesn't like to be hurried—beyond the point that he wishes to be hurried.

RADIO AND THE FARM

If there are indications of a back to the farm movement it is probably because something has happened which is making the farm more attractive. Probably the radio is having much to do with changing the minds of many people about farm life. Farmers are not a bit unlike other human beings. They want to keep in touch with life and to have the latest news. Radios, newspapers delivered daily—all these things are bound to result in a general turn of favor toward the farm.

AUSTRIA REGARDER AS ENABLER TO FINANCE RECOVERY

By FRANK B. KELLOGG
Secretary of State

(Frank Billings Kellogg was born at Potsdam, N. Y., on December 22, 1856. He went to Minnesota with his parents in 1865 where he obtained a common school education. He was admitted to the bar in 1877 and holds honorary degrees from three universities. He was city attorney of Rochester, Minn., for three years, then county attorney for five years. He formed a law partnership in St. Paul in 1887 and was president of the American Bar Association in 1912. He has been special counsel for the United States in several federal litigations. He served as United States senator from 1917 to 1923 which year he was named ambassador to Great Britain. He has been secretary of state since March, 1925. His home is in St. Paul.)

The United States has now agreed to the flotation of a reconstruction loan to Austria which shall have first lien upon Austrian assets.

After the armistice, the United States participated in a first reconstruction loan of $95,000,000. The share of the United States was $24,000,000.

However, Austria's condition was such that it became necessary for her to raise further loans and, commencing last year, negotiations were opened by Austria with all the other powers which had joined in the first loan, to provide for payments of a certain sum each year, and giving Austria further opportunity to make a loan for industrial recovery.

WHAT'LL THE HARVEST BE?

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

BY MADAME RUBINSTEIN

The sleeves, the belt, the shoulder line—all play a most important part in the selection of a bodice, and all these points should be well considered in the planning and choosing of such a garment, or part of a garment, as the case may be.

A small woman would do well to choose a gown in one color, but if she feels that a blouse and skirt of contrasting color is what fashion and the occasion demand, she should then be careful that these do not cut her exactly in half. It is preferable for the blouse to come well below the hips, and, if possible, even to the knees. Vertical trimmings may be very nicely used in frocks for the small woman, but plain materials, or those with a small figure, are the best selection for her. Sports frocks are very good, but if this woman wears a belt, it should be a narrow, simple one. Pockets should be unobtrusive, and narrow cuffs are best. Little jackets should not extend below the hipline. The tall, thin woman would do well to conceive and select her bodies in horizontal terms, and cut down her too-long lines with broad, wide treatment. Broad full cuffs give better proportions to over-long arms, and gloves of the gauntlet or pull-on type, which contrast with the dress or coat, are very helpful. Pant, or balloon sleeves, too, conceal arms which are too thin, and at the same time give breadth to the figure. All sorts of jumper and cape effects are good, and these are best when they extend well below the waist. Russian blouses and broad belts all may do their share in being of value to the tall, thin woman, while in jewelry the broad bracelet and the long pendant earrings are little touches which contribute to normalize the ensemble.

The problem of the stout woman is perhaps the most difficult. She would do well to cling to effects almost severe in their simplicity. Long-waisted frocks, long, straight panels, either as part of the dress and extending below the waist or hanging from the shoulder to below the waist. Belts should be of self-color and placed low, and the waistline, if self, should never be too tight, but easy and graceful. The sleeves should be long, but not too tight, and a little flare at the bottom of the sleeve will add length. If the bust is too large to be in proportion to the rest of the figure, let the neckline be cut to a V, which extends below the bustline or to the waist, and this may be filled in with a little vestee. Care should be taken not to have this opening too wide as in that case the effect would be broadening. Surplice and diagonal lines are probably the best allies of the stout woman, and the use of the long, thin jacket will be found most helpful.

When a garment has good lines and suits your particular style, it is correct.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Senator Henrik Shipstead sorted out a type-written sheet from a pile of papers on his desk and held it up before me.

"The questionnaire," he said, "is from an eminent authority on political subjects, who plans a series of articles favoring a commission form of United States government."

I have answered it, admitting my lack of sympathy with such a system of national government, but advising the author to consult Benito Mussolini."

"Commission government," observed the senator, "has been pretty thoroughly tested in our cities, with highly satisfactory results—to certain people."

"They commend it for its efficiency."

"They give it credit for ending a vast deal of graft."

"Undoubtedly it really does cleanse a city of a swarm of petty grafters."

"The few big, well-thought-of grafters, who wax fat and powerful under commission rule, attend to the extermination of the many little, disreputable ones."

"Nobody is so anxious as the big grafter to make graft RESPECTABLE."

"NATURALLY," continued the Minnesotan, "the folk who would profit by commission government on a national scale—by an American dictatorship—by Mussoliniism—are working steadily, surely in that direction."

"Congress stands in their way. For years they have been waging a campaign of detraction against the legislative branch of our government."

Household Hints

MENU HINT
Stew or Ragout
Beet Salad with French Dressing
Custard
Nuts
Coffee

What is more delectable than a well made, properly seasoned stew? It is good for the well person, it is easily digested and nourishing for the person who is not in too good health. Three different recipes are included in today's menus.

Today's Recipes

Ragout of Lamb—One and one-half pounds breast or shoulder lamb, three slices bacon, eight small onions, one onion stuck with cloves, six medium sized potatoes, one stalk celery, three sprigs parsley, a bay leaf, a sprig of thyme, tied together, four small carrots, four turnips, three tablespoons flour. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth, cut into inch cubes and dredge with flour. Dice bacon and cook until crisp. Brown onions in bacon fat; remove them and brown the cubes of lamb. Pour off all fat except three tablespoons; add three tablespoons flour and brown; add one pint hot water and stir until the gravy boils. Add the meat, the seasonings and the onion stuck with cloves. Cover and simmer for an hour. Then add the turnips, potatoes, and carrots, cut into quarters, and the browned onions, and continue cooking for about an hour longer. Remove the bunch of seasonings before serving.

German Veal Stew—Sprinkle a breast of veal with salt and pepper. Slice an onion and fry it in butter with a little parsley and celery tips. When hot put in the breast of veal. Cover tightly and brown the veal in the same fat. Add half a cup of canned tomatoes and a very little hot water. Cover and cook slowly for two hours, turning the meat frequently. Thicken the gravy with flour rubbed smooth in a little cold water. Season with minced parsley or caraway seed, boil up once and serve.

Spanish Stew—Use one and a half pounds of short ribs of beef. Put into a saucepan with two quarts cold water, bring to the boil and cook for two hours. Add a can of tomatoes, three large onions chopped fine, six cloves a pinch each of rose and celery seed, quarter of the peel of an orange, two bay leaves, a pod of red pepper and two cups boiling water. Cook half an hour, season to taste, pour over the meat and serve.

TRY THIS FOR BREAKFAST FRIED CORNMEAL MUSH

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)—One cup cornmeal mixed smooth with one cup cold water, one teaspoon salt, three cups milk. Slowly stir the meal mixture into the boiling milk. Place in fireless cooker and allow to remain eight or ten hours or all night. Use one radiator. Spread in one cake on oiled griddle and brown on both sides. Or cook thoroughly for two hours or more in double boiler, let cool and cook in the morning in hot griddle. Serve with syrup.

Diet and Health

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M.D., AUTHOR OF "DIET AND HEALTH" AND "DIET FOR CHILDREN"

Lumbago.
"I am a farm housewife of 40 years, and am just recovering from an attack of what we call 'dropped stitch' in the back. The lame back came on gradually, and then culminated in the 'drop' case. I was not able to move, except with the greatest ease. The pain was intense. I was doing especially trying work for the muscles of the back and was wearing few clothes, and may have caught a chill."

"I have two dead teeth, the nerves having been destroyed about 18 years ago. They are decayed a little at the edge of the gum but there are no external abscesses. Do you think I ought to have them out?"

"MRS. P." Just what causes a "stitch in the back" cannot always be determined. There is undoubtedly a weakness of the ligaments, and some sudden, unusual movement will cause a strain. It is possible for an infection such as from infected teeth to lower the resistance so that the strain is more easily contracted, so if I were you I would certainly have my teeth attended to, Mrs. P.

One of the effective means of preventing lumbago is systematic exercises of the trunk muscles so that they are strengthened, then a very unusual movement won't strain them. Our article on Abdominal Wall gives you these exercises.

The first thing to do after lumbago manifests itself is to be strapped so as to immobilize the muscles and stop the pain. This strapping can be done by another member of the family if you cannot go to your physician.

Get a spool of adhesive tape (two or three inches wide), cut off three or four lengths long enough to pass from the front of one hip to the front of the other, across the back. While standing, have them applied one at a time, tightly, and overlapping.

On top of the straps you can apply hot water bags or electric heat, and massage can be given through them.

Mrs. B.—Azar, psyllium seeds or bran, which may have to be added to give bulk to the diet to prevent ordinary constipation, do not act as physics do. There is no irritating principle in them. They simply act mechanically by giving the intestines something to catch hold of, we might say.

If the diet has one and one-half to two pounds of fruits and vegetables a day (not counting fruit juices), there should be enough bulk for this purpose. However, sometimes there does not seem to be, and these other agents have to be added for awhile anyway.

These measures are only for the ordinary constipation. There is a type known as spastic constipation, in which fibre and cellulose of the foods have to be strained out, until the intestines get over their irritating spastic condition. All this is covered in one article on constipation, which you may have by observing column rules.

S.—Exercises are needed to tone up the muscles and all the organs, and they do use some of the food, but one would have to exercise a tremendous amount to reduce without dieting. The hand rollers do give some good exercises at the same time you are getting massage, so I recommend them.

See answer to Mrs. P., above.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

We all know the old saying, "Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow ye die." Also we have all heard young people say that they have to have a good time now as they "are only young once."

Now comes a little girl and declares that because "we are only young once" we should have our good times in a good, clean way. A very sensible way of looking at things, I'd say.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am a junior in high school and may be what some term old fashioned, for I object very much to drinking and smoking, especially to the latter. I think one might as well jump into the fire to be so sociable. Please do not misunderstand me, I believe in having a good time, but why not have it in the right way? We are only young once, so why ruin our characters by doing things we will be sorry for later?"

"A TRUE FRIEND." Thank you, dear, of course I think you are right.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am a boy 23 and have been going with a girl of 20 for five years. We love each other greatly. When we first started going together we agreed that each of us could go with anyone else but those who went out a few times with four different girls while between the ages of 19 and 21, but it did not seem fair to them, so I just explained and quit going with them. One of the boys my girl went with loves her very much. (Of course I am jealous, but I try to hide it.) Now the only convenient time for her to see him is on Sunday afternoon, when he is having a standing date for 7 p. m. Sunday. She goes out with him and once in awhile she comes home 30 or 40 minutes late. That is one thing that makes me angry. I told her, and said, 'I told you, you are not at home at 7 I shall leave and not come back.' I was willing to let her give him Sunday, as I can see her all week days, or even to set out time to 8 or 8:30. She said, 'No, we will continue as we have been.' So now if she is late, again, do you think I shall do right by leaving her? If I left her I would continue to love her and come back to her any time she was willing to do right."

EASY GOING BOY.

It might "teach her a lesson." Supposing she was late, but it wasn't her fault? Things do happen to detain one who has the best of intentions. What are you going to do then? You wouldn't know it to you went away and didn't come back, and besides, it seems to me that you are going to be very unhappy going off mad. I appreciate the fact that when a person has an engagement they should aim to keep it on time, and also that you are very generous to the time of the other fellow takes up the time of me it would be better to clinch matters with her and become engaged—if she is willing—and then she wouldn't go with others. If she didn't love you and wasn't a very sweet girl she shouldn't have told you to go and "see if she cared," when you laid down the law to her regarding her lateness.

Peter's Adventures

BY FLORENCE VINCENT

DRINKING DOWN THE DEW-DROPS

Scarcely had Mother Grouse given her permission when off scurried the small partridges to get a drink, and their mother and the boy hurried after them. Mother Grouse to see that they came to no harm, and Peter, because he was curious to find out what they were going to do. Stirring up the dry leaves as they went, the youngsters did not stop until they had come to the edge of the woods. Right ahead of them the boy saw a merry little brook dancing along in the sunlight.

"Now how are those baby birds going to get a drink out of that brook without falling in?" asked Peter of Mother Grouse. "Aren't you afraid that something will happen to one of them? The water seems pretty deep even on the shore, and just see how steep the bank is! I hadn't you better call them back?" Mother Grouse smiled at Peter and shook her head.

"Now don't you worry about anything happening to the children. Do you suppose that I would stand right here and let them run into danger without giving a cluck? Those youngsters of mine are not going to drink from the brook. They are looking for drops of dew."

"That's right," I remember your saying that, now," cried the boy. "But how are they going to get any dew around here? The sun has been up a long time."

"Of course it has, but way down among those tall grasses are some drops that it hasn't dried up yet, and my children know just where to look. Watch."

them! Aren't they smart youngsters, even if they are my own, and it may not be very polite of me to say so?"

Smart those little Partridges were. The boy admitted it at once when he saw what they were doing.

Pussing their way among the grasses, carefully, so as not to shake off any of the precious dew-drops, they poked their little bills deep into the wet cluster and drank heartily of the sweet water. One clever fellow spied a shining drop hanging on a bending grass blade high above his reach, but he was not to be cheated of it for all of that.

Hopping upon a stone nearby he raised his bill and sucked it down with a glad gurgling triumph.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

SIN ACKNOWLEDGED—We acknowledge, O Lord, our wickedness, and the iniquity of our fathers: for we have sinned against thee.—Jeremiah 14:20.

DELAY IN BUILDING WARSHIPS

The history of the cruiser Salt Lake City ought to dispel any fear entertained by the pacifists that if the senate passed the cruiser bill today, we should have sixteen new warships by tomorrow night, and next week should be in a position to challenge the supremacy of the most puissant sea power. The construction of the Salt Lake City was authorized by act of Congress on December 18, 1924, and her keel was laid June 9, 1927. She was launched a few days ago, less than 63 per cent complete, and will not be commissioned before next December.

There will thus have elapsed between the authorization and commissioning of the first 10,000-ton cruiser to be built by the United States since the Washington conference of 1921-22, a period of five years; and between the laying of her keel and her launching there elapsed a period of nineteen months.

A modern cruiser is not built in a day. All her details must be planned before her keel is laid. After she leaves the ways she must be armed, conditioned and manuevered before she can be sent to sea.

The provisions of the bill which caused so much commotion in congress called for starting work on five cruisers and an aircraft carrier during the current fiscal year and on five cruisers during each of the fiscal years of 1930 and 1931. At best, we could not have more than the vessels started this year completed by the middle of 1931, when the Washington agreement is due for revision; and it is doubtful if a single ship contemplated by the bill could be in commission at that time. We should have, however, something concrete to bargain with—or something to defend our rights with in case war unhappily should be forced upon us.

THAT "WORST JOKE"

A writer in the London Express is quoted as saying that prohibition in America is the worst joke any country ever played on itself. Intelligent Englishmen know that the supreme need of Great Britain today is to raise the standard of living. Prohibition has done it in the United States and it would do it in Great Britain. Until it is done, Great Britain will remain hitched to a post so far as international competition is concerned. In the face of these conditions, to speak of prohibition as a joke evidences either a brutal selfishness which is willing to sacrifice the national good for personal appetite, or a footless stupidity.

Now that airplanes are being sold on the installment basis, collectors will have to learn to fly.

The Way of the World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

FROM DARKNESS TO LIGHT

In a biography of Cavour, Italian patriot, one reads these words: "In the ebb and flow of the seasons there comes a turning point when we say, 'yesterday was winter; today is spring.' The change may have been long, brooding, unexpected, almost unthought of; but we recognize it immediately. At a given moment we are surprised to note a new feel in the air, to see buds peep forth on twig and tree, to find a new, strange exaltation in the heart. When we looked last the fields were stubble; now a delicate verdure is creeping across them. Nature, which for many months has seemed utterly absorbed by death, now pours life and more life into every nerve and fiber of the visible world. History, too, has its equinoxes."

And so in the patient struggle on the part of a few to make an improved world there seems for long periods to be little progress. Looking at the world today we see the persisting evils of the long centuries that have passed. But we hope, and our reasons tell us, that there will come a day when we can say, "yesterday was winter; today is spring."

MARCHING ON

W. H. Kansas, California farmer, is 98 years old. That doesn't prevent him from announcing his candidacy for justice of the peace in 1930. He gets the jump on younger men who might be seeking office. At 98 he seems to lead the field in ambition and energy. There is something very brave about an old man, unaware of the sunset, pushing on to new things and new experiences with the indomitable courage of youth and of hope.

A SENSE OF TIME

The best salesman is not always the one that is described as the "peppiest." The man who is nervous, over-alert in manner, frequently gives the impression of being in a hurry. He does not create a comfortable atmosphere of confidence in himself and his goods. A customer doesn't like to be hurried—beyond the point that he wishes to be hurried.

RADIO AND THE FARM

If there are indications of a back to the farm movement it is probably because something has happened which is making the farm more attractive. Probably the radio is having much to do with changing the minds of many people about farm life. Farmers are not a bit unlike other human beings. They want to keep in touch with life and affairs. Telephones, roads, radios, newspapers delivered daily—all these things are bound to result in a general turn of favor toward the farm.

AUSTRIA REGARDER AS ENABLER TO FINANCE RECOVERY

By FRANK B. KELLOGG
Secretary of State.

(Frank Billings Kellogg was born at Potsdam, N. Y., December 22, 1856. He went to Minnesota with his parents in 1865 where he obtained a common school education. He was admitted to the bar in 1877 and holds honorary degrees from three universities. He was city attorney of Rochester, Minn., for three years, then county attorney for five years. He formed a law partnership in St. Paul in 1887 and was president of the American Bar Association in 1912. He has been special counsel for the United States in several federal litigations. He served as United States senator from 1917 to 1923 which year he was named ambassador to Great Britain. He has been secretary of state since March, 1925. His home is in St. Paul.)

The United States has now agreed to the flotation of a reconstruction loan to Austria which shall have first lien upon Austrian assets.

After the armistice, the United States participated in a first reconstruction loan of $95,000,000. The share of the United States was $24,000,000.

However, Austria's condition was such that it became necessary for her to raise further loans and, commencing last year, negotiations were entered by Austria with all the other powers which had joined in the first loan, to provide for payments of a certain sum each year, and giving Austria further opportunity to make a loan for industrial recovery.

All of the countries agreed to this and President Coolidge recommended the matter to congress. This has now been passed. By the new arrangement, the new loans will have first lien on Austrian assets. Instead of the first lien originally held by the first government loans to Austria.

The proposed reconstruction loan on loans to be floated in behalf of Austria are not to exceed $25,000,000—$11,000,000 (the $11,000,000 is about 14.5 per cent) and are to run for periods of not more than 20 years from July 1, 1929.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

BY MADAME RUBINSTEIN

The sleeves, the belt, the shoulder line—all play a most important part in the selection of a bodice, and all these points should be well considered in the planning and choosing of such a garment, or part of a garment, as the case may be.

A small woman would do well to choose a gown in one color, but if she feels that a blouse and skirt of contrasting color is what fashion and the occasion demand, she should then be careful that these do not cut her exactly in half. It is preferable for the blouse to come well below the hips, and, if possible, even to the knees. Vertical trimmings may be very nicely used in frocks for the small woman, but plain materials, or those with a small figure or stripe, are the best selection for her. Sports frocks are very good, but if this woman wears a belt, it should be a narrow, simple one. Pockets should be unobtrusive, and narrow cuffs are best. Little jackets should not extend below the hips.

The tall, thin woman would do well to conceive and select her bodices in horizontal lines, and cut down her too-long lines with broad, wide, better proportions to over-long arms, and gloves of the gauntlet or pull-on type, which contrast with the dress or coat, are very helpful. Peasant, or balloon sleeves, too, conceal arms which are too thin, and at the same time give breadth to the figure. All sorts of jumper and cape effects are good, and these are best when they extend well below the waist. Russian blouses and broad belts all may do their share in being of value to the tall, thin woman, while in jewelry the broad bracelet and the long pendant earrings are little touches which contribute to normalize the ensemble.

The problem of the stout woman is perhaps the most difficult. She would do well to cling to effects almost severe in their simplicity. Long-waisted frocks, long, straight panels, either as part of the dress and extending below the waist or hanging from the shoulder to below the waist. Belts should be of self-color and placed low, and the waistline, if self, should never be too tight, but easy and graceful. The sleeves should be long, but not too tight, and a little flare at the bottom of the sleeve will add length. If the bust is too large to be in proportion to the rest of the figure, let the neckline be cut to a V, which extends below the bustline or to the waist, and this may be filled in with a little vestee. Care should be taken not to have this opening too wide as in that case the effect would be broadening. Surplice and diagonal lines are "no-no's." The best allies of the stout woman, and the use of the long, thin jacket will be found most helpful.

When a garment has good lines and suits your particular style, it is correct.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Senator Henrik Shipstead sorted out a type-written sheet from a pile of papers on his desk and held it up before him.

"The questionnaire," he said, "is from an eminent authority on political subjects, who plans a series of articles favoring a commission form of United States government."

"I lack of sympathy with such a system of national government, but advising the author to consult Benito Mussolini."

"Commission government," observed the senator, "has been pretty thoroughly tested in our cities, with highly satisfactory results—to certain people."

"They commend it for its efficiency."

"They give it credit for ending a vast deal of graft."

"Undoubtedly it really does cleanse a city of a swarm of petty grafters."

"The few big, well-thought-of grafters who wax fat and powerful under commission rule, at tend to the extermination of the many little, despicable ones."

"Nobody is so anxious as the big grafter to make graft RE-SPECTABLE."

"NATURALLY," continued the Minnesotan, "the folk who would profit by commission government on a national scale—by an American dictatorship—by Mussoliniism—are working steadily, surreptitiously, as conceived by its founders, is being made over before our eyes, by folk who prefer it in a different form, for their own advantage."

"For years they have been waging a campaign of detraction against the legislative branch of our government."

"Is Mussoliniism their ideal?"

"Absolutely," replied the senator.

"What's more, with the country in its present frame of mind, I see no way of preventing them from realizing it."

What is more delectable than a well made, properly seasoned stew? It is good for the weak person, it is easily digested and nourishing for the person who is not in too good health. Three different recipes for as many different stews are included in today's menus.

Today's Recipes

Ragout of Lamb—One and one-half pounds breast or shoulder lamb, three slices bacon, eight small onions, one onion stuck with cloves, six medium sized potatoes, one stalk celery, three sprigs parsley, a bay leaf, a sprig of thyme, tied together, four small carrots, four turnips, three tablespoons flour. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth, cut into inch cubes and dredge with flour. Dice bacon and cook until crisp. Brown onions in bacon fat; remove them and brown the cubes of lamb. Pour off all fat except three tablespoons; add three tablespoons flour and brown; add one pint hot water and stir until the gravy boils.

Add the meat, the seasonings and the onion stuck with cloves. Cover and simmer for an hour. Then add the turnips, potatoes, and carrots, cut into quarters, and the browned onions, and continue cooking for about an hour longer. Remove the bunch of seasonings before serving.

German Veal Stew—Sprinkle a breast of veal with salt and ginger. Slice an onion and fry it in butter with a little parsley and celery tips. When hot put in the breast of veal. Cover tightly and brown the veal in the same fat. Add half a cup of canned tomatoes and a very little hot water. Cover and cook slowly for two hours, turning the meat frequently. Thicken the gravy with flour rubbed smooth in a little cold water. Season with minced parsley or caraway seed, boil up once and serve.

Spanish Stew—Use one and a half pounds of short ribs of beef. Put into a saucepan with two quarts cold water, bring to the boil and cook for two hours. Add a can of tomatoes, three large onions chopped fine, six cloves a pinch each of rose and celery seed, quarter of the peel of an orange, two bay leaves, a pod of red pepper and two cups boiling water. Cook half an hour, strain, thicken the gravy, season to taste, pour over the meat and serve.

TRY THIS FOR BREAKFAST
FRIED CORNMEAL MUSH
(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)—One cup cornmeal mixed smooth with one cup cold water, one teaspoon salt, three cups milk. Slowly stir the meal mixture into the boiling milk. Place in fireless cooker and allow to remain eight or ten hours or all night. Use one radiator. Spread in one cake on oiled griddle and brown on both sides. Or cook thoroughly for two hours or more in double boiler, let cool and cook in "moving" in hot griddle. Serve with syrup.

Diet and Health

BY LULU HUNT PETERS, M.D., AUTHOR OF "DIET AND HEALTH" AND "DIET FOR CHILDREN"

Lumbago.

"I am a farm housewife of 40 years, and am just recovering from an attack of what we call 'hopped stich' in the back. The lame back came on gradually, and then culminated in the 'dreaded stich,' and I was not able to move, except with the greatest care. The pain was intense, and was doing everything trying work for the muscles of the back and was wearing few clothes, and may have caught a chill."

"I have two dead teeth, the nerves having been destroyed about 18 years ago. They are decayed a little at the edge of the gum, but there are no external abscesses. Do you think I ought to have them out?"

"MRS. P.:"

Just what causes a "stitch in the back" cannot always be determined. There is undoubtedly a weakness of the ligaments, and some sudden, unusual movement will cause a strain. It is possible for an infection such as from infected teeth to lower the resistance there so that the strain is more easily contracted, so if I were you I would certainly have my teeth attended to, Mrs. P.

One of the effective means of preventing lumbago is systematic exercises of the trunk muscles so that they are strengthened, then a very unusual movement won't strain them. Our article on Abdominal Wall gives you these exercises.

The first thing to do after lumbago manifests itself is to be strapped so as to immobilize the muscles and stop the pain. This strapping can be done by another member of the family if you cannot go to your physician.

Get a spool of adhesive tape (two or three inches wide), cut off three or four lengths long enough to pass from the front of one hip to the front of the other, across the back. While standing, have them applied one at a time, tightly, and overlapping.

On top of the straps you can apply hot water bags or electric heat, and massage can be given through them.

Mrs. B.—Agar, psyllium seeds or bran, which may have to be added to give bulk to the diet to prevent ordinary constipation, do not act as physics do. There is no irritating principle in them. They simply act mechanically by giving the intestines something to catch hold of, we might say.

If the diet has one and one-half to two pounds of fruits and vegetables a day (not counting fruit juices), there should be enough bulk for this purpose. However, sometimes there does not seem to be, and these other agencies have to be added for awhile anyway.

These measures are only for the ordinary constipation. There is a type known as spastic constipation, in which fibre and cellulose of the foods have to be strained out, until the intestines get over their irritating spastic condition. All this is covered in our article on constipation, which you may have by observing column rules.

8.—Exercises are needed to tone up the muscles and all the organs, and they do use up some of the food, but one would have to exercise a tremendous amount to reduce without dieting. The hand rollers do give some good exercises at the same time you are getting massage, so I recommend them.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

We all know the old saying, "Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow we die." Also we have all heard young people say that they have to have a good time now as they "are only young once."

Now comes a little girl and declares that because "we are only young once" we should have our good times in a good, clean way. A very sensible way of looking at things, I'd say.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am a junior in high school and may be what some term old fashioned, for I object very much to drinking and smoking, especially by girls. I think one might as well jump into the fire to be sociable. Please do not misunderstand me. I believe in having a good time, but why not have it in the right way? We are only young once, so why ruin our characters by doing things we will be sorry for later?"

"A TRUE FRIEND."

Thank you, dear, of course I think you are right.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am a boy 23 and have been going with a girl of 20 for five years. We love each other greatly. When we first started going together we agreed that each of us could go with anyone else we chose. I went out a few times with four different girls while between the ages of 19 and 21, but it did not seem fair to them, so I just explained and quit going with them. One of the boys my girl went with loved her very much. (Of course I am jealous, but I try to hide it.) Now the only convenient time for her to see him is on Sunday afternoon, when he has a standing date for 7 p. m. Sunday. She goes out with him and comes in at 10 minutes late. That is one thing that makes me angry. I told her so and said, 'the next time you are not at home at 7 I shall leave and not come back.' I was willing to let her give him Sunday, as I can see her all week days, or even to set out time to 8 or 8:30. She said, 'No, we will continue as we have been.' So now if she is late again, do you think I shall do right by leaving her? If I left her I would continue to love her and come back to her any time she was willing to do right."

EASY GOING BOY.

It might "teach her a lesson." Supposing she won't, but it won't hurt. Things do happen to detain one who has the best of intentions. What are you going to do then? You wouldn't know it if you went away and didn't come back, and besides, it seems to me that you are going to lose very much. I appreciate the fact that when a person has an engagement they should aim to keep it on time, and also that you are very generous to "let" this other fellow take up the time of the girl you love. If it seems to me it would be better to elch matters with her and become engaged—if she is willing—and then she wouldn't go with others. If she didn't love you and wasn't a very sweet girl she would have told you to go. And "see if she came and hid down the law to her regarding her lateness."

Peter's Adventures

BY FLORENCE VINCENT

DRINKING DOWN THE DEWDROPS

Scarcely had Mother Grouse given her permission when off scurried the small partridges to get a drink, and the water under and around them.

Mother Grouse to see that they came to no harm, and Peter, because he was curious to find out what they were going to do. Stirring up the dry leaves as they went, the youngsters did not stop until they had come to the edge of the woods. Right ahead of them the boy saw a merry little brook dancing along in the sunlight.

"Now how are those baby birds going to get a drink out of that brook without falling in?" asked Peter of Mother Grouse. "Aren't you afraid that something will happen to them?"

"They seem pretty deep even on the shore, and just see how steep the bank is! hadn't you better call them back?" Mother Grouse smiled at Peter and shook her head.

"Now don't you worry about anything happening to the children. Do you suppose that I would stand right here and let them run into danger without giving a cluck? Those youngsters of mine are not going to drink from the brook. They are looking for drops of dew."

"That's right, I remember your saying that, now," cried the boy. "But how are they going to get any dew around here? The sun has been up a long time."

"Of course it has, but way down among those tall grasses are some drops that it hasn't dried up yet, and my children know just where to look. Watch them."

One clever fellow spied a shining dew drop hanging on a bending grass blade high above his reach, but he was not to be cheated. He hopped up to get it and it fell for all of that.

Hopping upon a stone nearby he raised his bill and sucked it down with a glad gurgling of triumph.

SIDNEY BEATS MIAMISBURG; GREENVILLE WILL MEET TROY

Sidney High School took another step toward the possible basketball championship of the Miami Valley League this season by noosing out Miamisburg 24 to 23 in a hotly-contested game on the Burger floor Friday night.

It was Sidney's third straight league victory against one defeat but did not change the complexion of the league race since Xenia and Piqua, the two leaders, are both undefeated.

Sidney was favored to beat the Burgers with ease but instead narrowly escaped defeat at the hands of a team which exhibited vastly improved form. Miamisburg wound up its league schedule with two victories against three defeats. Miamisburg had the game in its grasp Friday night, and then let it slip through its fingers. BUCCANEERS MAKE BLUE LIONS ROAR IN AGONY IN EIGHTH WIN

Visitors Throws Scare Into Central In First Half But Curl Up Under Blue And White Attack
Later; Scurry And Smittle Star

By PHIL FRAME
MAKING a strong comeback in the second half after being outscored in the first, Xenia Central High's "Buccaneers" added another scalp to their already impressive collection by drubbing Washington C. H. 32 to 20 in one of the best basketball games of the season Friday night at Central gymnasium.

Trailing by a margin of 14 to 11 at the half, the Bucs came back with a whirlwind attack after the intermission and completely swamped the Blue Lions for their eighth victory in nine starts this season.

Xenia led 7 to 4 at the end of the first quarter, was behind by three points at the half, jumped ahead 19 to 17 in the third quarter and by sustaining the rally in the fourth period, turned the contest into an utter rout.

Adroit at passing, floorwork and shooting, the visitors threw a scare into Buccaneer fans in the first half and the crowd heaved a sigh of relief when Xenia came back with a materially improved attack and defense in the last two periods of the game. Washington made an admirable effort and a great stand in an attempt to retrieve victory but unquestionably the better team won.

A total of twenty-three personal fouls were called, eleven on Xenia and twelve on Washington but only one player used up his allotted number, namely, Ireland, Washington guard, who retired on four personal fouls in the third period.

Washington opened the scoring on free throws by Noon and Moss. Gibney tied the count with a basket from the sixteen-foot mark and Captain Ferguson shot a fielder. Scurry made a bucket and Smittle a foul and basket, as the quarter ended.

All the grief came in the second period when Xenia was outscored 10 to 4. The Blue Lions quickly tied the score on a foul by Ferguson and a basket by Bireley and went ahead on a fielder by Noon. Smittle countered with a charity shot but a fielder by Noon and a foul by Bireley gave Washington a four point lead. Gibney cashed in on a basket and Weaver snagged a foul. Craig made a close-in shot as the half closed.

With defeat staring them in the face, the Bucs came back in the third quarter full of vim and vigor. Captain Ferguson opened with a basket and Weaver batted in a fielder. Smittle shot a basket and Buell's foul tied the score again, after a long uphill fight.

Bell's foul put Xenia in the lead to stay. Smittle came through with a basket and Ferguson a foul when the period ended. In the last quarter Xenia's offense began to function with its old-time efficiency. Scurry accounted for two straight baskets. Bell shot a foul. Smittle a fielder. Scurry a fielder. Bell a basket and Scurry another fielder. Captain Ferguson increased Washington's total with a dribble-in shot for a basket and a free throw as the game ended.

Scurry and Smittle shared high-score honors for Xenia, each making ten points, while Gibney, Bell and Buell played their usual fine games in every respect. Captain Ferguson was the thorn in the side of the Bucs, the Washington forward tallying nine points besides displaying a flashy brand of floor work.

Cedarville College and Rio Grande basketball teams will clash at Alfond memorial gymnasium at Cedarville Saturday night in a return game originally scheduled for Friday night, but postponed until the following evening. Rio Grande defeated the "Yellow-Jackets" 30 to 17 earlier in the season.

Cedarville College girls and Bowersville High School girls will play the preliminary game.

Bellbrook High School, Greene County Class B basketball champions in 1927-28, went down to defeat before the Waynesville High School quintet by a margin of 25 to 17 on the bellbrook floor Friday night.

Bellbrook girls, however, kept their season's record free from defeats by overwhelming Johnsville High girls, previously undefeated this season, 34 to 15 in the preliminary.

League standings:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.	P. O.P.
Xenia	3	0	1.000	107

When She asks you who the tall, handsome, lazy-looking guy is at the season's opener, you can take a hasty peek in your scorebook and astonish her with the RIGHT name.

For, with the beginning of the '29 season of pastime, all Yankee athletes are to be numbered aft and maybe fore with a ten-inch, dark blue numeral. The photo shows Lou Gehrig wearing the big "4" that he will sport during the coming year.

Wilberforce University's basketball team, back from a week's road trip to Kentucky during which three games were played, will meet West Virginia College Institute basketballers on the Wilberforce floor at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon in a matinee contest. Coach Walter L. "Pinky" Wilson, Xenia Central High School mentor, will referee the game.

BRINGING UP FATHER

WELL, IF IT ISN'T SQUINT-EYED DUGAN, HE LOOKS PRETTY GOOD FOR A SICK MAN. I'LL TAKE HIM TO THE DANCE WITH ME!

COME ON! IT'S A SWEET AFFAIR! IT'LL DO YOU GOOD. YOU'VE BEEN SPENDING ALL YOUR TIME IN HOSPITALS.

ALL RIGHT! I'LL GO. BUT YOU KNOW I'VE BEEN PRETTY SICK. IF I CAN'T GET AN UNCONSCIOUS ME TO A HOSPITAL.

KILLED BY AUTO

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 9.—L. O. Anderson, former supervisor of the state hospital here, died last night from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile. Anderson was born in Cambridge and came here to join the hospital staff during Governor Campbell's administration. The car which struck him was driven by Frank Casey of Columbus who was exonerated.

SIX OPERATORS IN XENIA AFFECTED BY SALARY INCREASE

Six operators in Xenia will be affected by an increase in pay of four cents an hour which has been granted to telegraph operators of the Pennsylvania Railroad, according to announcement just made. The increase will bring the average pay of operators on the system up to seventy-four cents an hour. Operators were also granted a six day week. They formerly have had only two days off each month. This latter arrangement does not include train dispatchers and their assistants.

Official notice of the increase, which is supposed to start March 1, has not been received here according to J. W. Gardner, chief operator in Xenia. There are six operators for the railroad in Xenia, three of them at the telegraph office at the station. For the last six months the telegraph station at Wilberforce has not been in operation.

When the Pennsylvania has completed the installation of the automatic signal system it will mean the elimination of a large number of telegraph operators it is said. The system was placed in operation between Xenia and Morrow, at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. It will not be long before the system will be opened between Xenia and Richmond and completed between Xenia and Cincinnati. It is expected that about six of the seventeen operators between Xenia and Richmond and ten of the twenty-four working between Xenia and Cincinnati will be needed under the automatic system. This is not expected to affect the operators in Xenia.

An increase of four cents an hour was granted to Pennsylvania mechanics two weeks ago, it was said here.

SPECIAL BILL WILL BE PRESENTED FOR PROPOSED BUILDING

will be obtained because of the prior claims of various other cities on the preferred list, business men and officials working in behalf of the project, point out that such a building would not increase the tax rate here and that the army might just as well be located in Xenia as anywhere else since tax-payers would pay just as much whether the structure is obtained here or whether it is located in some other city.

Funds for construction of the army would be supplied by the state, contingent upon local interests obtaining a suitable site. The public would raise the money to purchase a site but the army would be maintained by the state. An armory for Xenia would solve the problem of obtaining a suitable building for use as a convention hall also, it is declared. It could be used for holding mass meetings, athletic contests including basketball games, school graduation exercises and fill all local needs for public use. The building could be rented from the state for use practically at cost.

Colonel L. 17th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, particularly needs a new armory since the lease on its present quarters in a building on E. Main St., expires December 1, 1929. The present armory has always been inadequate for local guard purposes such as drills and other maneuvers. A new armory would be used by the guard unit, however, only once a week.

New armory buildings built by the state are completely equipped with a drill floor, showers, dressing rooms, offices for guard company and space for a basketball court. They seat several thousand people.

Spokesmen for the local delegation at the Columbus conference presenting their arguments before the adjutant general and finance committee, told the committee, Greene County was one of the best counties in the state during the Civil War and World War when it came to furnishing soldiers.

The local guard unit was highly complimented. Adjutant General Reynolds, addressing the Greene County delegation declared his department felt kindly toward the Xenia guard and declared that if Rep. Williamson introduced the special bill the matter would be given every consideration by his department.

Representative Williamson assured the delegation of his hearty support and best efforts to get the bill through the legislature. John W. Prugh, former mayor of Xenia and now state building and loan superintendent, acted as spokesman for the visiting party.

The following made the trip: I. Friedman, president of the Xenia Retail Merchants Association; D. W. Cherry, president of the Rotary Club; James Adair, president of the Kiwanis Club and City Board of Education; Postmaster C. S. Frazer; City Manager S. O. Hale; City Solicitor J. A. Finney; J. F. McLaughlin, of The Gazette; County School Superintendent H. C. Aultman;

City Auditor T. H. Zell, Henry L. Binder, former president of the merchants organization; Sheriff Ohmer Tate; Captain O. H. Cohn, of Company L; J. W. Kennedy, Harold M. Owens, George Eckler, Horace Ankeney, Fred Lang, F. A. Wright, R. S. Blackburn, H. D. Furst, John W. Prugh, B. H. Slagel.

Passed Up! THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MADE MEN LIKE HER

By ROE FULKERSON ©1929 by Central Press Association, Inc.

READ THIS FIRST: Betty Brown, a girl who had devoted herself to culture, decides to take up dancing to make herself physically attractive. She gets ready to attend a summer camp where dancing is taught. She meets Harry Ford, a merry lad, who kisses her the first time he is with her and fails to do so the next time when he has her out in his rattle-trap car.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER IX

Betty went for one more drive with Harry Ford in his ramshackle car. Leah, before the week was out. This time he quite casually put his arm behind her along the back of Leah's seat. He didn't try to hug her and she had no excuse to resent the familiarity. After it had been there for a few moments she had no inclination to resent it.

He drove with one hand, and alternately chatted the line of foolishness so characteristic of him, and sang the popular songs of the moment. He had with him a volume of half humorous, half cynical verses from which he read her half a dozen poems.

Parked on the road side, she listened to him read. Her head dropped quite naturally back on his arm and she watched the clouds scud lazily across the sky. She was really happy with this carefree boy, who was supposed to be studying law. When he leaned over and kissed her quite tenderly, she had the inclination to put her arm around his neck and hold him close.

He turned the pages of the book looking for another poem. She felt that kissing had none of the sinister insinuations she had always supposed to be a part of this pastime.

She wondered if her mental attitude was changing, or if she had been overly particular. She had meant to save her kisses for the man she married; certainly this boy had no thought of marrying her or any one else.

She meditated his voice intoned the poem. When he stopped, she realized that she had not heard a word. He also seemed to realize it.

"What's the world's most wonderful woman thinking about?" he demanded, grinning down into her face.

"Your kissing me!" She was startled into the truth.

"I will give you more food for thought!" He kissed her again.

"Do men think less of girls who allow themselves to be kissed?" she asked.

"My Gosh! Why do women always want to talk about kisses?" he demanded. "Kisses aren't to be talked about. They are to be done!"

"Like that?" He laughingly kissed her again.

"I feel that I ought not to," said Betty.

"You do it well," he admired. "I'm not in the habit of kissing men."

"Oh, that wasn't what I meant. As a kisser you are not so hot. I meant you handed out your line of stuff till I can almost see curls hanging down on your shoulders. It's pretty hair," he added, patting it.

"Don't!" cried Betty. He pulled his hand away. "I didn't mean you shouldn't touch it. I meant don't tell me I have nice hair. I've heard that to the exclusion of every other compliment until it is getting on my nerves!"

"Ah, the future Pavlova grows temperamental!" he laughed. "Oh, well, you are a bit leggy, and a bit too tall for most of us, but thank heaven I am six feet. You won't have to stoop to conquer me."

The tone in which this doubtful compliment was paid denied her any right to resent it.

"I'm going to take Lois to take dancing in a summer camp," she announced.

"With Selkoff?"

"Yes."

"And she came back, alas and alack."

"With a naughty little twinkle in her eye!"

He hummed the old music hall ditty gaily.

"Shouldn't I go?"

"By all means! I will help you on your downward path by bringing leaping Leah to take you. When we get there I will run Leah into the swimming pool and we'll swim ashore and make a big hit with the other inmates. As you will learn in the course of your dancing career, a good entrance is half the battle of capturing an audience. The biggest hit I ever made was when I was carried into a canteen on a shutter in the days of my exuberant youth. Some fellows from my frat carried me in, but the management had four waiters and a bus boy carry me out."

"Are you ever serious?"

"Only by accident. Even Homer nodded, we are told."

"I hope you were serious when you said you would drive me down."

"I would shed my last drop of gasoline for you, darling."

"What makes you call me darling?"

"You are the only girl here, aren't you? Who or whom, as the Arabs may be, is there to call darling but you? I got a right to call somebody darling, haven't I? Am I not?"

She heard her mother shout: "Betty, is that you?"

I not free, white and twenty-one, he had not. At least never in that way. There were kisses and kisses! Either the ones she had just received were a great compliment or a great insult. She was not certain which. It was either her most delightful or her most repugnant experience, and she was equally uncertain on that point.

Here was something she could not ask Lois or her mother about. She would have to figure it out for herself. But how was she to do this?

She rose from her bed and, turning on the light, looked at herself carefully in the mirror. Her eyes sparkled a bit, very wide open. She picked up a hand glass and held it closer to look at her lips. Gradually she drew the glass closer until she was pressing a kiss on her own lips.

She laid the glass down hastily and, snapping out the light, went back to bed, ashamed of what she had done. It was an hour before she fell asleep.

And here's another stage luminary to add to yesterday's list of those recently signed for Vitaphone films: Julia Sanderson. Miss Sanderson first appeared in a Shubert musical play called "The Tourists" and has had a long and honorable career on the musical comedy stage—too long to mention, in fact. Her present husband is Frank Crumit who plays with her in musical comedy, sings for records and does a bit of ukelele strumming throughout both.

Montreal must be the movie goers' paradise. A new law passed there prevents the sale of any more tickets after the house is filled.
